

MEMORY OF JUDGE MANN HONORED BY FELLOW LAWYERS

Torrance County Bar Adopts Resolutions of Respect and Condolence on Death of Distinguished Jurist.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL.)
Bernalillo, N. M., Nov. 24.—Immediately after the recent death of Judge Edward A. Mann, Judge E. L. Medler, who was at the time holding court in Estancia, appointed a committee consisting of Col. G. W. Hamilton, District Attorney H. B. Hamilton and Fred H. Ayer, to draft suitable resolutions expressing the sorrow of members of the bar at Judge Mann's untimely death. The committee made its report yesterday and the resolutions were unanimously adopted. They are as follows:

"To the Honorable Edward L. Medler, Judge of the Third Judicial District, State of New Mexico, now sitting within and for the county of Torrance:

"Your committee appointed by your honor, at the present term of this court, to prepare and present to the court resolutions on the death of Judge E. A. Mann, who suddenly lost his life in an automobile accident, on the nineteenth day of this month, respectfully present the following:

"Judge Mann was a prominent member of the bar at this state, at the time of his death. He was admitted to the bar in Kansas in 1891, subsequently practicing in that state and in Nebraska. He was practicing at the time of the Scotts Bluff, in the last named state. In 1902 he came to New Mexico, locating first at Albuquerque, and subsequently at Las Cruces. From that place, in 1904, he was appointed judge of the territorial district court of New Mexico by President Roosevelt, and held that position till 1909. His uniform courtesy, while on the bench, was a matter of comment among the lawyers who practiced before him. He presided over the first court in this county of Torrance. After he left the bench he settled in Albuquerque, and was elected member of the last legislature from Bernalillo county, in which body he was the floor leader, and served his constituents with distinction.

"Judge Mann had a sunny nature. His personality was always pleasant. In his relationship with his fellow men he was always congenial. His greetings were cordial, and he had a smile for everyone, yet he possessed strong and positive convictions at the bar and was an adversary of great force.

"Resolved, that in his death our profession has lost an able member, and the people of the state an esteemed citizen, that your sympathies are hereby extended to his family in their sorrow, that the Judge of this court is hereby requested to cause a copy of these resolutions to be spread upon the records of this court, and also a copy thereof to be furnished the press of the state and to the family of the deceased, by the clerk of this court.

And Suffered Dreadfully From Headache, Backache, and Dizziness. Says Now That Women Are Foolish to Suffer and Tells Why.

New Augusta, Min.—In relating her experience, Miss Irene H. Craft, of this town, says: "I have been troubled for a right smart while with female weakness. I was irregular, and was down in bed about all the time. I had chills and fever with these troubles for at least a year, and a great deal of dizziness, headache and backache.

"When I was sick at each month, I had to stay in bed all the time, because my back would ache and my head would swim so that I would almost faint if I stood on my feet.

"I endured this for about three years. Finally, I began to doctor with a doctor. He did not help me much. Then he recommended Cardui, and I began to take it. I took about one bottle and felt much better. I have taken a whole lot now, and feel just all right. I have no backache, headache, or dizziness now.

"I think women are foolish to suffer when they can take so helpful a remedy as Cardui, and I surely praise it to every one."

"If you suffer from any of the ailments so common to women, why not give Cardui a trial?"

"Such earnest statements as the above speak for themselves, and we receive thousands of similar ones every year.

JAPANESE DEPORT GERMAN BUSINESS MEN FROM NATION

Alleged Shipments of Copper to Kaiser's Government Cause Order of Banishment to Be Issued Forthwith.

(Associated Press Correspondence.)
Tokyo, Nov. 1.—Japan's order of deportation against five German business men of Yokohama, which has already been carried out, has brought into discussion the entire question of the treatment of German civilians as well as German prisoners in Japan. The authorities make no statement in connection with the deportation beyond the declaration that the men were dismissed from the country because of conduct detrimental to the interests of Japan and her allies. Japanese newspapers, however, openly allege that four of the Germans, namely those connected with the firm of Otto, Reimers & Co., were dismissed because they shipped copper through neutral countries destined for Germany. Some newspapers say they understood an official authority that a Japanese copper mine had actually been worked by the company and its products forwarded to Germany through the United States.

The deported Germans include Martin Pore, manager of Otto, Reimers & Co.; H. Forke, K. Fischer and C. Heilmann. The fifth German dismissed was M. P. Bengel, manager of Bergmann & Co. at Yokohama. The investigation of the police covered several months and the evidence in each case is said to fill more than 500 written pages. The incident is regarded as showing that the authorities are constantly exercising a high degree of vigilance over German civilians resident in Japan.

Guilt Is Denied.
The Japan Globe, published at Yokohama, prints a copy of an affidavit which was sworn to by Martin Pore last July at the American consulate at Yokohama. The affidavit declares that the copper business transacted by the firm of Otto, Reimers & Co. in Japan direct or through others in Japan since the outbreak of the war has not been done and is not done with Germany nor with Germany's allies. The affidavit further declares that the copper business transacted by the firm of Otto, Reimers & Co. in Japan direct or through others in Japan since the outbreak of the war has not been done and is not done with Germany nor with Germany's allies. It continues by saying that all the copper shipped by the firm to New York is sold in New York through its agent, H. P. Earle, an American citizen, to various American refilling establishments. The affidavit was sworn to before George H. Reimold, who subscribed himself as consul general of the United States in charge of German interests at Yokohama.

Several cases of outbreaks among the German prisoners of war have led the Japanese press to declare that the authorities are treating the prisoners too liberally. The most recent trouble occurred at the camp at Kure when a Japanese guard is said to have been assaulted by a German prisoner after he had warned the prisoner to be more careful about smoking and about throwing live ashes on the floor. The Jiji declares that the authorities should deal with Germany and its people in a manner different to that accorded to other nations. It expresses the opinion that a sharp watch should be kept over the German residents in Japan.

NEWSPAPER MEN TO FORM CORONER'S JURY

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADER WRITER.)
Pittsburgh, Nov. 26.—T. H. Given, president of the Post Publishing company; Col. Charles A. Rook, president of the Dispatch Publishing company; Col. Oliver Hershman, president of the Press Publishing company; George S. Oliver, vice president of the Gazette-Times Publishing company; Alexander P. Moore, president of the Leader Publishing company; and W. H. French, a newspaper man, today were summoned as a jury by Coroner S. C. Jamison to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the fire of October 5, when thirteen persons lost their lives. Twelve of the victims were employees of a box factory and the other an Italian family, who, it was charged, were trapped in the building because of inadequate fire protection.

DIGGING TOOLS ARE PRECIOUS TO ALL SOLDIERS

Little Instrument Developed in This War Stands Next in Importance to Rifle as an Implement of Warfare.

(Associated Press Correspondence.)
Frankfurt, Nov. 27.—Next to his rifle, every soldier values most of all his entrenching tool, which consists of a small wooden handle not quite two feet long and a detachable iron crosspiece with a pick at one end and a sharp narrow spade at the other. Men cling to their entrenching tools when they have had to discard nearly every other article of equipment. A man without an entrenching tool feels that he is of rather less value as a soldier than if he had no uniform. Without this little pick and spade he must lie out in the open after an advance instead of wrapping for himself a little mound for cover.

When there is any movement in the lines most of the entrenching work is done with these little tools. It is only when a position has been solidly won and is to be occupied more or less permanently that large picks are brought up and put into use. The infantryman needs no urging to dig. It becomes the nearest instinct to realize that his life depends on providing himself with proper cover. And this instinct is strong enough to conquer even the overpowering desire for sleep which comes at the close of a long day's hard fighting and which at nightfall often makes even the consumption of food seem superfluous. Frequently the first infantryman after ten or twelve hours of fighting must struggle from dusk to midnight with his entrenching tools, not till his cover is snug and sound does the soldier dare to curl himself up in his pit and take the coveted forty winks in preparation for the counter-attack which is almost certain to come before dusk.

A soldier's letter tells about a British regiment that boasted they did not die. "It was a very gallant regiment," he writes, "with a large share in the battle honors of Britain's past wars. They had charged at Rastenburg; they had fought in every corner of the globe. But they had not been taught to dig; it was beneath them. They were nominally a cavalry regiment, with a cavalry regiment's foolish ideas of caste."

"And here is what happened to them not very far from Mons. The regiment had been rushed into a gap to cover the flank of an infantry brigade. Because they were dismounted, an infantry officer offered them some friendly advice, urging them to provide themselves with some kind of cover. But they laughed, took their position, and lay down in the open. We don't dig," they boasted proudly. Poor soldiers found them and sprayed them off the face of the earth as the little bugs are cleaned off a rosebush by the gardener's spray."

Bank Deposits Increase.
Artesia, N. M., Nov. 26.—The latest statements made to the controller of the currency by the national banks of Eddy county and to the state bank examiner by the state banks, shows a substantial increase over the last statement made in September. There are five national banks and two state banks in this county, and every one of them shows an increase in deposits. The exceptionally good year for cattle, sheep, fruit and all farm products together with the growth of the stock feeding business and the raising of poultry, has put more money in the Eddy county banks than was ever there before. The two banks in Artesia have had an increase of over $75,000 in deposits since their last statement.

DARING ACTS OF HEROISM TOLD IN OFFICIAL NOTES

Fighting at Loos and Hulluch Brings Out Many Instances of Courage on the Part of British Soldiers.

(Associated Press Correspondence.)
London, Nov. 26.—More than a hundred instances of individual bravery in the fighting at Loos and Hulluch are weeks ago are recounted in latest official notes appended to the latest list of awards of the military cross and distinguished service medals. The ten most striking stories are as follows:

Captain Dennis, British Borderers, was wounded in the trenches but after his wound was bandaged he crept from the ambulance and went back to his men, fighting with his company until again wounded. He was carried back to a dressing station from which he disappeared after his wound was dressed. Later he was seen creeping up with his company and again cheering them on until he was wounded a third time.

Major Gordon, London Artillery, got close up to the German lines to recover wounded, and although under heavy fire, brought back twelve German captives after having shot one man with his revolver.

Lieutenant Carr, London Infantry, noticed while directing the removal of grenades from the trenches that the face of a bomb had become corroded. He at once picked it up and carried it out of the trenches. It exploded just as it left his hand, seriously wounding him. His comrades saved an explosion of many thousands of grenades and bombs, which would have killed scores of men and destroyed the entire trench system.

Captain Ruff, London Field Artillery, on one occasion worked for 24 hours without cessation in emptying and repairing the wounded. He was twice observed carrying wounded on a stretcher under rifle fire, and for 25 hours was continuously exposing himself to heavy shell fire.

Lieutenant Williams of the "Huff" took charge of a small party of bombers and attacked the enemy, throwing 2,000 bombs in seventeen hours. He was coming out of the trench, and the damp fog had to be left from darkness. Williams was wounded early in the fighting but refused to leave his post.

Lieutenant Holloway, Royal Artillery, laid a telephone wire through the Hohenzollern redoubt under heavy fire. One leg was disabled before he had done ten yards, but he braced himself and the same leg being again disabled he crawled the rest of the way, finished his task. When two telephone cables endeavored to carry him to safety he insisted that they leave him and tend the wire.

Lieutenant Pusch, London Artillery, led a party of bombers during the advance through Loos. Going alone into a house he captured seven Germans, although shot in the face by one of them. Notwithstanding his wound he continued clearing the enemy out of the village of the town.

Captain Williams, Welsh Guards, was in command of a squad of machine guns. After having a wound dressed he went back to his place and continued to direct the work until midnight, although the nature of his wound compelled him to lie flat on his back all the time.

Lieutenant Wood, Gordon Light Infantry, took 275 prisoners in four minutes back under heavy fire with a small escort, and returned with much needed ammunition for the men in the firing line. Being by himself the only officer left in his company, he pulled it out of the line of 800 and held his new position with great bravery and resource.

Captain Kesteven, Welsh Fusiliers, although severely wounded early in the fighting, continued at the front of his men and maintained his position until he had been hit seven times.

Indigestion and Constipation.
"For some time prior to using Chamberlain's Tablets I was troubled with indigestion and constipation. I lacked ambition, and felt tired and worn out. Chamberlain's Tablets afforded me quick relief, and eventually toned up my system generally and restored me to good health," writes Mrs. S. J. Ryther, Eden Center, N. Y. Obtainable everywhere.

AUSTRALIA ASKED FOR MORE MEN BY ALLIED ARMIES

9,000 a Month Is Irreducible Minimum, According to Minister for Defense Who Has Charge of Recruiting.

(Associated Press Correspondence.)
Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 26.—"We want over 9,000 a month," said the irreducible minimum," said Minister George F. Pearce, minister for defense, a few days ago in reference to recruiting in Australia.

"The army council has asked us to increase our percentage of reinforcements by the equivalent of 100 per cent. We have been sending them forward in a proportion of from 10 to 20 per cent. It has been asked that we should increase this to 20 per cent, which will mean over 9,000 a month. The increase would simulate two existing divisions, the consequent wealth, it is shown that the need for men is increasing rather than decreasing. I feel sure that the method of the commonwealth will be regarded as keeping up the requisite supply for the front. Time for about 10,000 men have been enlisted in Australia.

Gillandra, a town of 5,000 inhabitants in the south-west region of New South Wales, has been threatened with complete depopulation if the number of recruits from that place have declined to 100 a month. The residents of the town have threatened a general strike if the number of recruits from that place have declined to 100 a month. The residents of the town have threatened a general strike if the number of recruits from that place have declined to 100 a month.

The march is attended by many picturesque incidents. Most of the men have lived at quarters on the coast, very little of the war, among them, which include a number of them, including a former Methodist minister named Lee, who like Chamberlain in the old days of Rome, left their fighting, says he is being most of the speaking time the recruits at the rallies in the country towns. The men have been dubbed the "kneeball army" and such made it called a "kneeball."

A group of four-five South Sea Island volunteers, also recently arrived in Wellington, New Zealand, from the Cook group, somewhat singing popular war songs in English and in their native tongue.

When the natives left the Cook Islands, their friends and relatives had them farewell in native fashion by kissing their feet. When Wellington was reached the recruits marched to Parliament house singing "Dixie" and "Annie, Annie Dore." In the language of the Cook archipelago, The Maori members of parliament addressed them with patriotic speeches, after which there was a haka or Maori war dance by the Maori legislators.

Good Year for Alfalfa Seed.
Artesia, N. M., Nov. 26.—This has been one of the best years for the growing of alfalfa seed that the Precious valley has ever known. From Roosevelt to Carlsbad many farmers have devoted a part of their acreage to the seed crop, and in every instance they have made good money by it. One farmer, sending to Los Angeles, sold 500 bushels of alfalfa seed for the seed at a low price, but that was not brought him $144. Equals the seed crop brings in about $25 an acre, and this is in addition to two crops of hay, and the hay from the seed crop.

Any insanity, Judge David J. Leahy tonight committed the man to the New Mexico hospital for the insane.
